Bloomfield Senior High School

Bloomfield, New Jersey

We, the Class of 1965, dedicate ourselves and this book to the cause of democracy and freedom, a cause which is under attack by Communism. Fifty years ago, our democratic way of life was first threatened by a foreign power. The young men and women of that time rose to meet the challenge. They, and later their children, fought and died to preserve democracy. Now, a half-century later, we, too, face a malignant threat to our society, the threat of Communism. Slowly, insidiously, the Communists have conquered free peoples all over the globe. They cannot be allowed to continue. As our late President John F. Kennedy said, "The torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans." We are this new generation; we pledge ourselves to fight Communism until this torch of freedom can burn brightly in every part of the world.

WE ARE THE PRESENT

Come, we shall be friends.

Let us start together,
Hand in hand to build anew.
Oh! What a hope-filled task to do:
Peace before sunset.

Come, let us be builders and dreamers.
We shall stem the storm-tossed seas,
Building bridges on foundations clear
Of yesterday's hate and fear.
Vile hate! Vile fear!

For we are the Present,
Our feet on the portals of the future.
In hands joined, strength to make injustice
cease,
And to leave for all tomorrows a world of peace.
God, help us!

—Janice Wolf '65

June, 1965

To the Class of 1965:

Although basically a remembrance of our three years at B.H.S., Memories '65 is also a brief account of the Bloomfield High of fifty years ago. Through drawings, old photographs, statistics, and short descriptions, we have attempted to compare and contrast the school and students of today with those of 1915. Startling, unusual, warmly humorous, amazing--all these describe the results of our comparison.

Styles of dress, career opportunities, and ways of recreation have changed completely in the last half-century. The growth of our town and the expansion of knowledge in all fields of learning have resulted in many alterations of the school building and the curriculum. Despite these striking differences, we share with these seniors of fifty years past common dreams of a happy future, common hopes for peace and prosperity, a common threat to our democratic way of life.

Thus, we of the Memories staff present to the Class of 1965, the largest graduating class in the history of Bloomfield, this yearbook as a picture of our school today and half a century ago.

Sincerely,

Lois De Julio
Lois De Julio
Editor-in-Chief

Faculty and

Imagine Bloomfield High School fifty years ago. Because Brookdale was almost entirely farmland, students elected courses in poultry-raising and breadmaking. Arithmetic courses taught students how to divide land into plots, and history included the development of agriculture. As World War I erupted, Bloomfield High School helped by training nurses and offering diplomas to all boys who enlisted before graduation. In 1918, French was substituted for German. The need for a new school building soon became apparent since the old school, the present Administration Building, was too crowded. As the years progressed, the faculty also changed. The size of the staff doubled and tripled before it achieved its present size. As Bloomfield regained its prewar prosperity, salaries increased and the faculty improved. Thus, as we look back over the last half-century, we see a period of many important and amusing changes.

Curriculum

To the Class of 1965,

In the past fifty years Bloomfield Senior High School has achieved excellence in the field of education. The ideal of scholarship, which must dominate a modern high school, has always been on a solid basis here at BHS. The principles of academic freedom have always been nurtured with infinite skill in the high school curriculum. It has taken profound conviction and courage to infuse BHS with so many desirable suppositions in this past half-century of time. And BHS has never deviated other than to continue as an outstanding academic and athletic high school.

The advantage of being a BHS graduate carries with it the responsibility of pursuing the ideals and principles learned here. And each person can and must aid in the effort to help our society achieve its greatest and fullest possibilities and dreams.

In future years, when you, the Class of 1965, have taken your places in the affairs of the busy world, there will come times when you will live again your high school days in retrospect. Matters now of prime importance and friendships now most prominent will have faded from memory, perhaps. But there will remain those ageless memories, those influences and occasions which molded your characters and shaped your lives.

You will do well to honor BHS and her tradition. You will do well to remember her in every way possible for the next fifty years.

Sincerely yours,

Office Staff . . . Behind the scene support

With the ever increasing population at Bloomfield High School, the office staff has assumed a position of greater importance. The office staff publishes the daily notices, the major link between the student and school activities. To-day, with bus facilities the office staff is responsible for the sale of bus tickets. The office secretaries are indeed an integral part of our school activities.

Bloomfield High School has adapted its curriculum to meet the complicated mathematical horizons without losing sight of the simple mathematical processes of everyday life. Bloomfield High School's mathematics department is designed to broaden the concepts of both students who plan no further education, and those who plan to go on to college.

Since science is such a vital part of our lives, B.H.S. places considerable importance on the science department. Yesterday biology, chemistry, and physics were new and almost unexplored worlds; thus, the school placed little stress on them. Today, as our need for technicians and scientists increases, B.H.S. has modernized. We now have new textbooks, well-equipped laboratories, and highly technical courses such as Chem Study. Science has a tomorrow, too. Therefore, B.H.S. teaches us not only to understand the principles of science in our lives today, but also to meet the challenges of the future.

proficiency

Business education is rapidly expanding into one of the largest departments of B.H.S. The scope of the business education curriculum is indeed broad. The sixteen business courses offer specialized instruction opportunities in merchandising and big business; yet, business education extends beyond typing and stenography. Students learn to develop their own personal qualities of integrity, punctuality, and neatness. B.H.S. is proud of the reputation the business education department has earned in sending well-prepared students out into the business world.

Bloomfield High School recognizes the necessity of a sound body. In B.H.S., students must successfully complete physical education courses before graduation. Gymnastics, however, encompass far more than the curriculum teaches, so clubs and intramural sports exist. Thus, Bloomfield High School develops both the student's mind and body in order that he may become a vital part of a growing America.

Skilled draftsmen, modelmakers, and designers are in increasing short demand. Recognizing this shortage, Bloomfield High School has enlarged its industrial arts department to meet the growing need. Now boys receive excellent preparation for high paying and intriguing vocations.

Home Economics . . . Practical training for future homemakers

Bloomfield High School has enlarged its Home Economics department to meet the latest trends in foods, health, child care, and fashions.

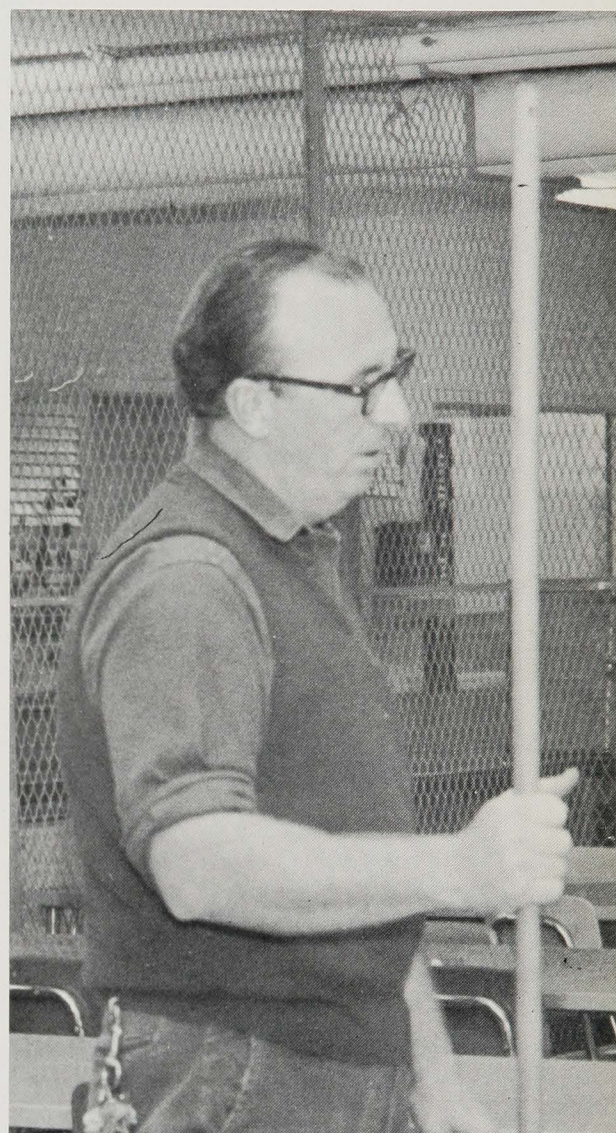

The home economics department implants the newest techniques in the minds of the students with the hope that this knowledge will aid both in college home economic studies, and in married life.

Cafeteria . . . Student's paradise

The scene of laughter, discussion, noise, our cafeteria is perhaps the most popular place in Bloomfield High School. Here students escape the tension of classes and relax among close friends. A combination of nutritious meals, efficient organization, and congenial atmosphere make lunch one of the most enjoyable periods of the day.

Seniors

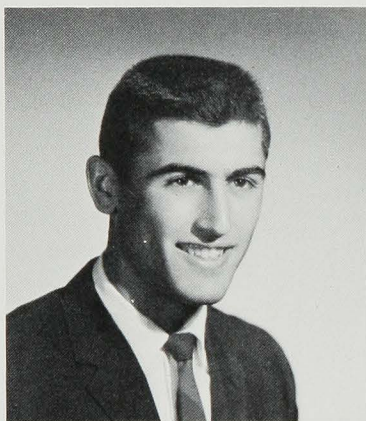

The Class of 1965 is the largest class to graduate from B.H.S. Fifty years ago the class to graduate averaged 55 students, which compared to our 685 seems incredible.

The students of a half-century ago were involved in a different situation; but teenagers throughout the ages are basically the same. Today high school is dominated by the requirements of college preparation. Fifty years ago very few were able to further their education. The seniors of 1965 are dedicated to the same ideals and principles which were exhibited by students five decades ago.

Activities

Can you imagine participating in such clubs as the Poultry Raising Club, the Breadmaking Club, or the Charm Club? Half a century ago, these were the principle activities offered at B.H.S. By 1920, activities increased to include football, boys' and girls' basketball, gym teams, Latin, French, and Spanish Clubs, Mixed Glee Club, and Orchestra. Although many activities have been eliminated to meet the changing times, many more have been added to provide a vast area of beneficial experience.

EDITORIAL STAFF

To co-ordinate the work of the literary, photography, auxiliary, typing and art staffs is the single job of the editorial board. Composed of the six editors, the members work for unity within the yearbook.

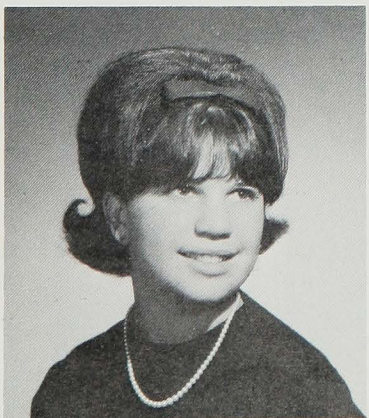

MAXINE OLMAN
Art Editor

Eighth Period, chaos invades the sanctum of Bloomfield High School. In the Yearbook Room, both editors and staff members rush frantically to meet deadlines that seem to approach all too quickly. The literary staff struggles to complete the perfect headline, and to compose the final write-up. Upstairs, in the art room, the art staff attempts to create the most appealing layouts, and the most pleasing page designs. Candid, group pictures, and individual snapshots are the responsibility of the photography staff. After write-ups are completed and articles are composed, the typing and auxiliary staffs prepare the book for the printer. With the coordination of the editorial board, the staffs meet the deadline. With a sigh of relief, the numerous staffs and editors complete MEMORIES, your MEMORIES, 1965.

and Students

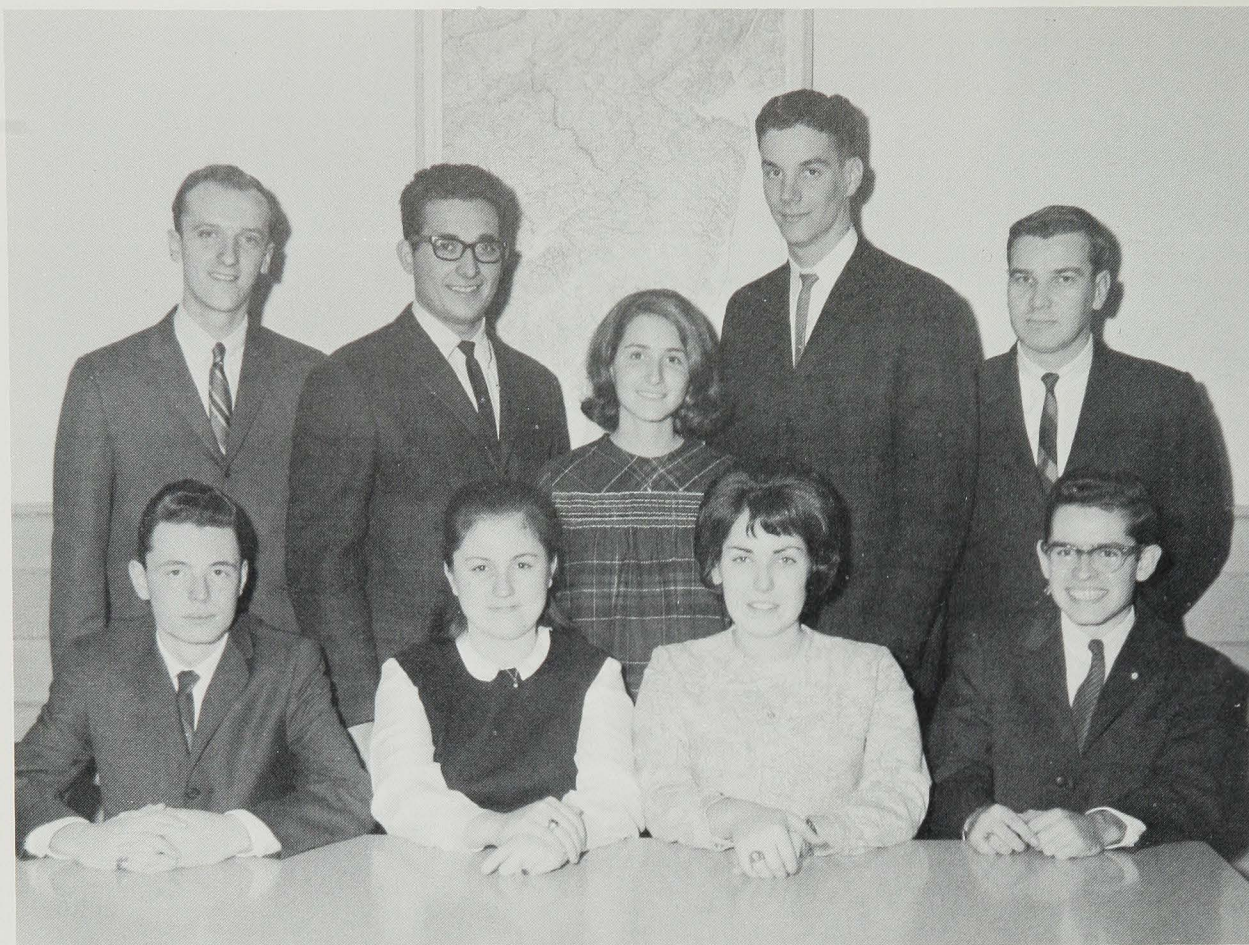

At B.H.S., the Student Council enables the student body to participate actively in school affairs. Each homeroom elects a representative and an alternate who act as a bridge between the government and student body. Among the most important programs sponsored by the Council are the Football Queen Dance and the Foreign Exchange Student Program.

By serving the community as well as the school, our Student Council has earned a reputation worthy of respect.

Senior Forum

Every year, selected members of the senior class present a debate before the remainder of the seniors. The forum consists of six panel members and a moderator, and is sponsored by the New Jersey History Club. Each year the Senior Forum discusses a current topic of interest to the students. This year the Senior Forum was concerned with "The Problems of the Garden State".

On an evening in December, Henry Aldrich, the well-meaning, bumbling teenager who attracts trouble like a magnet, came to life on our stage in "What a Life", one of his many adventures. Portrayed by Allan Kolstein, under the direction of Mrs. Dietrich, Henry managed to solve a mystery, overcome a villain, and enchant the heroine all in one short, hilarious play, greatly enjoyed by students and parents alike.

Dedicated to Serve

The service clubs encourage their members to develop leadership through volunteer work for the school and the community. Ushering at school functions, working at local hospitals, collecting money for charities, and finding prospective blood donors are part of the activities sponsored by these groups. The members successfully uphold the high ideals of their clubs.

“A Funny Thing Happened On the Way to the Forum”

This year, the Latin Club, the oldest high school Latin Club in America, is celebrating its 60th anniversary. Throughout its history, the club has signified honor, service and tradition.

Literary discussions and poetry readings comprised the early meetings. Today the club enjoys films and reports on the Roman civilization.

The Latin Club has always served the community and the school. At Thanksgiving, the club collects food for a needy family. The “sociables” of the past have become dances, but they still provide enjoyment for the students. The annual cake sale is another event the club sponsors.

Although 60 years old, the club still retains its original goal of making Latin a living language.

Sports

Fifty years ago, B.H.S. athletic teams began an ascent that would make Bloomfield synonymous with sportsmanship and championship teams. In 1915, William Foley, formerly a "shotgun" guard on gold shipments out West, came to B.H.S. to coach football. That first year, the team only won three out of eight games, but Coach Foley's later squads became the mightiest in the state. From 1917 to 1918, with twenty-four consecutive victories, the basketball team set a record not broken until 1957. For a half-century, Bloomfield athletes have won honors in the county, the state, and even the Olympics.

Going . . .

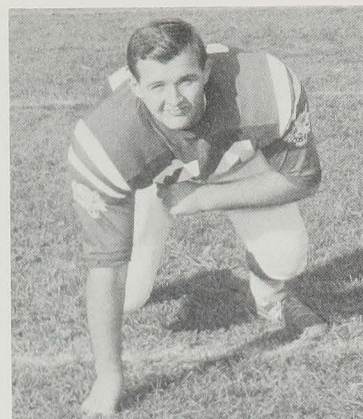

Coming to life late in the season, Coach Gallucci's gridmen defeated Irvington and Nutley, showing true skill and team coordination. A dedicated coach, outstanding co-captains, and a powerful team made the Bengals keen competition in every game. Each individual player was in himself a "star"; together, displaying teamwork and good sportsmanship, they comprised an outstanding squad.

Unfailing enthusiasm and the desire to serve their school are combined in the pep squads of B.H.S. The girls spend hours learning new routines and practicing with flags, batons, or shakeros. Many a day the squad members go home with stiff joints and sore muscles only to return the next day to give an excellent performance at a game or rally.

Under the direction of Majorette Beverly Lynch, the Bengal Marching Band performed during the games and half-times at Foley Field for the enjoyment of the students and spectators. Hours of practice each week enable these fine musicians to perform intricate routines and difficult songs with ease. On the field, the gay romping of our Bengal Tiger, Joan Weber, adds humor to the beauty of the formations. This year the band has had the unusual honor of being invited to give a performance at the World's Fair.

Adding to the splendor and pageantry of the Bloomfield High School sporting events are the Drill Team and the Color Guard. For the Drill Team, early morning practices resulted in the mastery of a difficult routine. Captained by Brenda Cerny, the Drill Team entertained spectators at the West Orange football game, the Nutley football game, the West Orange basketball game, and the gymnastics demonstration. Contributing to the more serious and dignified portions of our sporting activities is the Color Guard. With Judy Conroy as captain, the Color Guard presented the colors at all home football games. Both the Drill Team and the Color Guard have made great contributions to Bloomfield High School tradition.

The Varsity Soccer Team, co-captained by Bill Muse and Gary Stromfeld, tied a B.H.S. record for twelve wins in a single season. The team also scored the highest number of goals in one game when they defeated Montclair 7-1. All-State first team recognition was awarded to Captain Bill Muse, and several other players won honors at the county and state levels. The expert coaching of Mr. James White, and Mr. Donald Williams plus the fine ability and spirit of the team gave B.H.S. one of the best soccer seasons on record.

Can you beat that Bengal Five? It's rough!!! Gaining entry to the New Jersey State Finals, the Bloomfield Bengals have proven themselves to be among the unbeatables. A big Bridgewater-Raritan team awaited the Bengals at Atlantic City. For three quarters it looked as if Coach Cella's boys were on their way to the state championship, but with only six minutes left, Bridgewater was led to a comeback by their 6'8" "giant." The Bengals lost the state title by a score of 63-55. With some of the finest shooting and rebounding in the state, this game climaxed a season in which the Bengal Five secured the Big Ten Championship, reached the semi-finals in the Essex County Tournament, and won the North Jersey Group IV title. Winning 22 games and losing only 5, the team of the 1964-65 season is the best B.H.S. has had in eight years.

Did you ever see a friend on the wrestling team refuse to eat lunch in order to lose weight? Because weight classes are carefully regulated, well-planned diets are essential to a wrestler's training. Wrestling also means hours of conditioning and practicing to determine the outcome of the next day's match. In 1965, the squad wrestled its way to a 5-7 record by defeating Seton Hall, Kearny, Irvington, Belleville, and West Orange. In Bloomfield's Christmas tournament, the team placed fourth, with Co-captain Jim Dougherty, and teammate, Tony Rosamilia, winning in their weight classes. John Catalano did the same in the Nutley tournament. Other stand-out performers were Co-captain John Forcella, Edmund Karwowski, and Bob Heinzerling.

Up and Down We Go . . . Round and

Outdoor track has always been an eventful, record-breaking activity at Bloomfield High School. Distance running, hurdles, and sprints involve both speed and stamina. Jumps include the high jump, the long jump, and the pole vault, all of which require strength and coordination. The shot put, the javeline throw, and the discus throw conclude the track events.

The Golf Team, under the direction of Mr. Brown, consists of eight members. After school one can find these boys at the Broad Acres Golf Course, practicing to perfect their form and to master golfing skills. This team strives to develop precision, competence, and sportsmanship by competing with other schools in the area. Putting and driving are par for the course for this skillful team.

Tennis fans take delight in watching the B.H.S. Tennis Team compete with teams of other schools. Competition is stiff but individual talent as well as teamwork contribute to the success of B.H.S. tennis teams. With the aid of Coach Leite, Co-captains John McCormack and Gene Fornarotto, and a group of well-rounded athletes, the tennis team set an exciting pace which thrilled all spectators.

Bowling, a healthful exercise and an exciting sport, develops coordination of both the body and the mind. In this activity, precision, balance, and form are essential to a successful game. Both individual scores and team scores determine the outcome of the game. Under the direction of Mr. Brown, the team has completed a highly eventful year in the world of strikes, spares, and splits.

Where the gym classes leave off, the girls' sports program begins. For girls who enjoy competition, intra-mural basketball, soccer, and bowling are offered. A girl wishing to develop individual skills may find satisfaction in the Gymnastics or Archery Clubs. Physical fitness is not just for boys alone, and the B.H.S. sports program provides opportunities for every girl to excel at a sport.
